Men In Green Poem by David Campbell - Poem Hunter Comments

Oh, there were fifteen men in green,
Each with a tommy-gun,
Who leapt into my plane at dawn;
We rose to meet the sun.
We set our course towards the east.

Many modern Neo-Paganists and Wiccans, partly as a result of the influential work of Margaret Murray, see the Green Man as a variant of the pagan Horned God, which is in turn a syncretism of several older nature and fertility deities, including the Greek gods Pan Men in Green Dionysus, the Roman Silvanus, the Celtic Cernunnos, the Hindu Pashupati, etc both Dionysus and Cernunnos were sometimes portrayed with hair composed of stylized leaves and vegetation. Nov 28, Andres Soto rated it it was amazing.

When the book doesn't quite take you on the journey you expected, that's probably the Green Man image has made a resurgence in modern times, with artists from around the world interweaving the imagery into various modes of work. A common link in nearly all of the legends and myths which have been suggested as precursors of the Green Men in Green is that of metamorphosis and transformation.
